REVIEWS & RECOGNITION:

"Dick Siegel is a stellar songwriter, a superb guitarist, with a terrific voice and the sharpest of wits - just a great entertainer. It's no wonder that his fellow musicians call him a songwriter's songwriter." (Michael Erlewine, Founder of The All Music Guide)

"Siegel transmutes lyrical vignettes exploring longing, loss, memory, giddy joy and dread - the stuff of everyday life - into a reflective, utterly accessible personal mysticism . . ." (Detroit Metro Times)

"For a man who can - and does - turn a single phrase as easily as Louis Jordan and writes killer, hummable melodies in virtually every music genre in the American vernacular, Siegel somehow manages to top himself this time out." (Thom Jurek, All Music Guide, review of 2002's A Little Pain Never Hurt)

"Dick Siegel makes music that is joyful to listen to. His songs inspire, make you reflect . . . he combines beautiful melodies with profound and often witty lyrics to create wonderful songs." (Charly Mann, The Maverick Report)

"Someplace between Tom Waits and Johnny Cash lies the genius of Dick Siegel. Dick and the Brandos will shake up your audience, have them dancing in the aisles, and rolling on the floor - they're that good!" (Craig Carrick, Nor-East'r Music Festival Coordinator/Carrick House Concerts)
